Washington, D.C. 20505

Dear Admiral Turner:

It was certainly a pleasure to meet you yesterday, and I thank you again for sharing with me your good thoughts on Ambassador Volpe.

Some of your comments have been incorporated in chapter nine of the biography, and I am now sending you the two pertinent pages (#75 and #77) for your examination. Would you kindly go over the quoted material and return these pages to me along with your consent to include your observations in the book.

I would be grateful too if your Secretary could send me two copies of the photographs we took in your office. It would be an honor for me to keep one picture autographed by you while sending the other on to the publisher.

I trust I shall have the opportunity of seeing you again; until then, may I extend to you my very best wishes and warmest regards.

Cordially
